

LOCAL SOCIAL EVENTS

Miscellaneous Shower.

A miscellaneous shower of attractive appointments was given at the last evening in honor of Miss Laura Mae Dunnington and D. S. Langell, both of this city, whose marriage will be an event of the near future. While the engagement of Mr. Langell and Miss Dunnington had not been formally announced the fact had been divulged to friends and the affair was arranged last night in their honor. It was a complete surprise to both Miss Dunnington and Mr. Langell, but nevertheless was greatly enjoyed. The guests numbered about sixty and included the young women of the "Y" who serve the Rotary club at their weekly lunches, relatives and close friends of the honor guests and the dormitory men. A cobweb of cords were entwined about the room to each end of which was attached a present. Both Mr. Langell and Miss Dunnington were given the ends of the cords and as they found the secreted gifts they were displayed to the onlookers. Quite a number of pretty and useful gifts were received. Refreshments were served during the evening and games of various kinds were played. The affair was arranged and carried out by the staff of the "Y" and was among the most enjoyable of the kind ever held there.

While the date of the marriage of this popular young couple was not divulged it is generally understood the marriage will be an event of the very near future.

Miss Dunnington is an accomplished and cultured young woman of this city and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dunnington of View avenue and is a member of a prominent family of this state. For the past three years she has been office secretary at the "Y" and has been identified with all the activities at that building during this time and is very popular with the officials and employees there and also in local society circles. She serves her connection as office secretary this evening. Previous to taking up her duties at the "Y" she held a position in the city schools as physical director of the girls' gymnasium work. Mr. Langell, a native of Anderson Ind., but has been located here about a year and during his residence here has made a number of warm friends. He holds a responsible position with the Mid-West Box factory on the East Side.

Guests of Mrs. Lehman.

Mrs. A. B. Scott and Mrs. J. N. Simpson, of Morgantown, are guests of Mrs. A. L. Lehman at her home on Walnut avenue. They came here today for the Washington Birthday celebration of the William Hammond Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the home of Mrs. W. H. Conaway and will spend the week end here. They will be joined here this evening by Capt. Simpson, dean of the college of medicine of the State university, who will also be the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lehman.

Returned Here.

Mrs. Mason Wood who had spent the past several weeks in Washington, D. C., with her sister Mrs. F. L. Poin, who had been ill, has returned to her home in this city. Mrs. Poin, who is considerably improved at this time.

Board to Meet.

The Board of the Woman's Hospital Association will meet on Monday afternoon at three o'clock at the hospital. All the members are urged to be present especially the new members recently appointed.

In Minneapolis.

A. E. MORGAN IS BURIED TODAY

Prominent Fairview Citizen Died at Fairview on Wednesday.

Funeral services over the body of A. E. Morgan, aged 77, a prominent citizen of Fairview, whose death occurred on Wednesday at his home at that place took place this morning from the Methodist Episcopal church, south, at Fairview with the Rev. C. N. Coffman officiating. Burial was made by Undertaker J. Y. Hamilton.

The death of Mr. Morgan removed from that town one of its most progressive business men and one of its best citizens. Mr. Morgan was interested in many concerns which had to do with the upbuilding of that community. Many years ago he helped to promote a large grist mill for that community and had been manager of that concern for the past 25 years.

He was a kind, son, husband and father and was much revered in the community in which he resided. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

Mr. Morgan was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan and he was born on Helen's run, March 5, 1843. He married Corilla E. Amos, daughter of Peter Amos, on January 5, 1871. Right after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Morgan settled at Fairview and he had lived there for forty-nine years. His wife departed this life March 23, 1914. Since that time he had been residing with his daughter, Mrs. J. C. McChesney, in Fairview. The surviving children are Van B. Morgan, of Cincinnati, Ohio; C. Ray Morgan, of Bristol, W. Va.; Porter A. Morgan, of Michigan City, Ind.; Mrs. J. S. White, near, of Grafton; and Mrs. J. C. McChesney. There are five grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Luesow, both employees of the Monongahela Valley Traction company, are ill at their home.

The Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor states that at least 12,000 white children are born out of wedlock each year, and that probably not more than 7 per cent. survive the first year of life.

Moorhead whose marriage was an event of January 21 in this city, and who had been at Miami where they will remain until April first when they will go to Montana where they will spend the summer on a ranch owned by Mr. Moorhead. Mrs. Moorhead before her marriage was Miss Heintzelman.

Miss Billingsley Entertains Guests. The home of Mrs. George C. Baker on South Walnut street, was the scene of a most delightful George Washington party last night, when members of the Elizabeth Ludington Hagans chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was hostesses to a large number of their friends.

The guests who were admitted by Miss Ione Bowlby, were received in the drawing room, by Mrs. George C. Baker, regent of the chapter. Mrs. R. H. Edmonson, ex-vice president general, N. S. O. A. R., ex-state regent of West Virginia, and ex-chapter regent, Mrs. W. H. Barbe, ex-chapter regent, Mrs. T. Brasley Reay and Mrs. T. R. Winsheimer, of Fairmont.

The feature of the evening was a delightful program, the first number being a group of quart songs, two by Endicott, "Queen Mary's Farewell to France," and "He Stole My Heart Away," followed by "Tis for 'Tis," all of the revolutionary period, and sung most effectively by Miss Jean Billingsley in a Martha Washington costume. The songs were followed by a quaint little dance in which Miss Billingsley displayed much grace and coyness as a dame of the olden days.

About 75 were present. George Washington hatchets were presented each guest by Mrs. Roy Lough, as follows—Morgantown New Dominion.

Celebrating Washington, Birthday

The William Hammond chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution are entertaining this afternoon at the home of a former regent, Mrs. W. H. Conaway, members of chapters of the organization from Morgantown, Clarksburg, Mannington, Weston and Buckhannon. The affair is the annual celebration of the birthday of George Washington. When the guests arrived they and the members of the local chapter were entertained at luncheon following which a patriotic program with an address on "Americanization" by Rev. Charles Baird Mitchell will be given. Quite a number of out of town guests are being entertained.

Dancing Party. Quite a number of guests were entertained last evening at the Normal school when the faculty and student body gave a dancing party of delightful appointments. The festivity took place in the study hall with dancing cards and other games features of the entertainment. Phillips orchestra furnished music for the occasion and light refreshments were served.

Gave Fine Dance. So successful and enjoyable was the dance given last evening by the Alpha club, a social organization of this city, that plans are already in the making for a series of such events to be held during the season. This dance was the initial social event of the club. The attendance was large and the evening was most delightful. The committee in charge of the affair and to whom much of the credit for its success is due was composed of Messrs. Roy Jenkins, Harold Holland, Sydney Spiro, Samuel Kelley and Eugene Zercher.

With Mrs. Lyon. The Altar Guild of Christ Episcopal church will meet on Monday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank R. Lyon on First street. A full attendance is desired at this meeting.

SEATS NOW SELLING for THE BRAT At the HIPPODROME

Evening Chat

He Had A Few Years Up His Sleeve. The prisoners yesterday in criminal court who received sentences were many of them very surprised. The night before, a number of guests in the jail were discussing the likelihood of Judge Lowe passing out very heavy punishment for those who yet remained unsentenced. "Aw," said one "I don't believe the Judge's got many more years in his system. We'll get off easy!"

You never can tell about anything in this world. The Judge did have a few more years up his sleeve as he proved yesterday when he sentenced a long line of young men. He had a six, a five and a two that I know of.

Young Boy Crime Increasing.

There was an unusually large number of young boys before the Judge this term, a fact especially to be deplored and wondered at. It is said since the war many more youngsters than ever before are committing crimes. Judge Lowe remarked upon the matter recently with a shake of his head. It is almost more than one can hear to see so many boyish faces, many of them innocent appearing, many of them bearing the stamp of ignorance rather than guilt. Fathers and mothers are especially to be pitied at such a time. I watched several fathers yesterday standing with head bent, a look of misery on their faces. Parents suffer very, very much more than others of course, at such a time. Judge Lowe has been especially kind to boys he thought deserved another chance and has granted parole to a number. This new Judge has also taken special pains to keep the names of very young boys and girls from the newspapers. As you know it is not lawful to publish these names without permission and Judge Lowe has withheld this permission where he felt the child deserved such consideration.

A True Story.

The night was very dark following a severe winter snow storm when Mary came to Fairmont. Mary was small and simply dressed. Her eyes and hair were of nondescript color perhaps but her voice was low and sweet. She applied for room and care at one of the hotels and not many days afterwards a wee son was born to her. She had plenty of money to pay for the attention she required and she told no one anything about herself. How many times have you followed closely through the pages of a novel—from the moment a tiny founding was discovered to the day when the baby, grown to man, hood or womanhood, learned he knew nothing at all of his parentage. Many a boy has fought difficulties without the aid of a rightful owner.

Today a wee, pink boy lies in the arms of his protectors and no doubt will never again know what it means to be rocked by the woman who gave him birth, the mother left Fairmont as soon as she felt the little fellow could get along without her and did not leave an address. Somewhere in another city there is a young mother tonight who is heart hungry and unhappy I want to believe. Surely she can't go on living in clean environments with this secret locked in her soul where it can never bother her again.

What Shall She Do?

Do you know what some people say about such things? They shrug their shoulders and remark: "Oh, well, the baby will no doubt get a better home than a higher grade of love and what could the mother do all alone?" What could she do? Why she could have taken that little soul to a distant city if need be where its history need not be known and there bring it up in the best manner she knew how. Souls aren't kept out of heaven because of sinful birth and good training and real love may do wonders for a helpless baby boy under proper care and attention. No stranger on God's earth can make up for mother-love.

"In the event the mother is bad?" you say. Well then I don't know. It's hard for me to believe a mother can go through a thing like that and remain bad. Surely the fire of her experience should cleanse her of further wrong doing. Surely the twining of a baby's finger about hers should fill her being with love and sorrow and repentance and cause her to do every thing in her power to atone.

"We Hope Not."

I hope the following won't reach Prof. Colebank's ears. A young girl remained home from school because of a severe cold several days ago and at the end of the second day she felt Prof. Colebank should be appraised of her condition and the reason for her absence. She said to her mother afterwards: "Well, mother dear, I thought if Mr. Colebank knew it was me calling he would think I couldn't be very sick and you know I was in bed all one day and just able to sit up the next."

The girl intended telling whoever answered the phone that she was unable to be at school but when she heard a sterner voice she became temporarily stricken and without thinking of consequences said: "Is this you Mr. Colebank. Well, Mary is unable to be at school today. She is sick."

"I am very sorry to hear that, I am sure. I hope she is not taking the flu," Mr. Colebank replied.

"Thank you. We hope not," replied the girl in her best mother voice. Then she sat down and laughed till the tears came and how could mother scold when it all happened so suddenly and without premeditation.

Protect the Young Folks.

I think it is most enlightening when I tell you that many young people go astray who belong to families where their parents are separated. This fact was mentioned particularly yesterday at criminal court. Doesn't it begin to look as though fathers and mothers should bear much more before breaking up the home circle by divorce or separation if it can possibly be helped? We are all inclined to be selfish where our personal happiness is concerned. But we can't get away from the fact that our children much more than our happiness. First and foremost, they must be protected from the knowledge that love does not always prevail for life between two persons who vowed to cling to one another through time and eternity. And all ugly phases of marriage should be withheld from boys and girls just as long as possible.

George C. Robertson Dies Very Suddenly

George C. Robertson, aged 72, night watchman of the Monongahela Valley Traction company at Rivesville, died last evening at six o'clock at his home near Barrackville, as a result of a stroke of paralysis which he sustained yesterday morning at about 11:30 o'clock.

Mr. Robertson had been in his usual state of health and was at his post of duty Thursday night. Returning to his home early yesterday morning he retired as usual. About eleven o'clock a noise in his bedroom attracted his wife there and she found him lying on the floor unconscious. Physicians were hastily summoned but could give no relief and he died without gaining consciousness.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson came to this city from Cleveland, Ohio, some months ago and purchased one of the bungalows on the Barrackville road near Mohawk station.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. F. E. Reeves, of this city and two sons, W. N. Robertson, of Fairmont, and Hecckiah Robertson, of Portland, Oregon. One son, John, died in over-seas service and two daughters are also deceased. Mr. Robertson was a highly respected man and his death was a severe shock to his family and friends.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodlawn cemetery by Undertaker Musgrave and son.
